

REJECT NOMINATION OF U.S. COMPTROLLER

Members of Senate Banking
Committee Vote Against
Williams, 9 to 7.

LONG FIGHT WILL RESULT

Doubt if Upper Body Will Ratify Action Taken on Party Lines.

Special Despatch to THE SUN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The nomination of John Skelton Williams of Virginia to be Comptroller of the Currency for a renewed five year term was refused approval to-day by the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency. By a vote of 9 to 7, cast upon strictly party lines, the committee decided to report the nomination unfavorably to the Senate.

This action, it is believed, marks the beginning of one of the bitterest congressional fights ever waged in the Senate. The chances of ratification of the Committee's action by the Senate are not certain. With the political status of the Senate 49 Republicans and 47 Democrats it is hardly expected even by the most intense opponents of Mr. Williams that the whole Republican strength can be continuously asserted in the forthcoming executive sessions.

On the other hand, it is not to be expected that Mr. Williams can poll the unanimous vote of the Senate Democrats.

The Administration, however, will rally for a stiff fight for confirmation.

Will Seek Early Action.

After the committee's action to-day Senator McLean (Conn.), chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee, said that he would report the rejection of the nomination to the Senate immediately and that he would seek early action in executive session. This, however, is hardly a possibility in view of the present pendency of the peace treaty in the upper house. Furthermore, the Administration Democrats will undoubtedly use every endeavor to prevent a vote on the committee recommendation until they have had time to align their forces and seek to find among the Republicans a few votes necessary to reverse the committee's action.

The Republicans would like to draw the issue on the Comptrollership at the earliest possible moment. If it shall transpire that the majority have the necessary votes to defeat confirmation, it is predicted that a continuous executive session will be forced and the issue tried out on the basis of an endurance test.

The appointment is for a five year term, and therefore in addition to any reasons involving the fitness of Mr. Williams on the part of the committee, the question of whether the Republicans assume that they elect a President in 1920, will want as earnest a partisan Democrat as Mr. Williams occupying one of the most powerful offices in the Administration.

Until the Senate confirms the nomination of Comptroller or ratifies the recommendation of the committee to-day Mr. Williams will continue to serve as Comptroller during the remainder of the Presidential term of Mr. Wilson.

Only One Phase Settled.

To-day's action by the committee brings to an end only one phase of the whole case of Comptroller Williams. The controversy over his appointment is based upon the charge, reiterated to the committee on Banking and Currency by opponents of Mr. Williams, that he is temperamentally unfit for the office of Comptroller. He was charged with having used the powers of his office to vent personal spite. The nomination was pending in the last Congress while the Democrats controlled the Senate. They were unable, however, even with their majority, to force a vote to confirm and the case was carried over into the present Congress. At the last session of the Sixty-fifth Congress, Senator Weeks (Mass.) appeared against the confirmation and fought it before the committee of which he was then a member.
